Message from PASCO CEO, Ryan Zeiger

Clients/Family/Friends,

I know there have been a lot of questions circulating about the new Electronic Visit Verification requirements (EVV) for Medicaid services that were passed by Congress in December of 2016 as part of the 21st Century Cures Act. To date I have refrained from sharing information about these new requirements, because there has been a lot of uncertainty about what will be required. While stakeholders like PASCO, our clients, and Medicaid participants in general have the ability to influence the requirements through stakeholder feedback processes with our Medicaid state agency (HCPF), at the end of the day HCPF will determine the final requirements with which providers will need to comply. You can go to the following HCPF informational page to get the latest information:

<https://www.colorado.gov/pacific/hcpf/evv>

That said I do want to share some key thoughts to consider:

- 1) Implementation Timeline: Per the original federal law and Colorado HCPF's timeline, providers were going to be required to have EVV solutions in place by January 1st, 2019.
 - a) To confirm, both Colorado Medicaid (HCPF) and Medicaid providers like PASCO are required by federal law to implement EVV.
 - b) President Trump did just sign a bill to delay required implementation for one year to January 1st, 2020.
 - i. <https://homehealthcarenews.com/2018/07/trump-signs-bill-delaying-evv/>
 - c) Colorado Medicaid has officially delayed the EVV requirement to January 1st, 2020 to align with the federal legislation.
- 2) Real Time Clock-ins/Clock-outs: Based on guidance to date, it does appear that the new requirements will mandate "real-time" clock-in and clock outs.

- a) Many agencies currently use paper timesheets, or online electronic timesheets. Often those can be filled out at the end of the day or the following day after visits are delivered. While HCPF has not yet promulgated specific rules to this effect, all indications are that all home health/personal care visits will require that clock-ins and clock-outs occur at the start and end of each visit. This will need to be through a system that is recording the "live time" of the start and end of the visit.
- b) The department does have a sub-committee specifically geared toward understanding issues EVV may pose in the context of consumer directed and family caregiver situations, which is another opportunity to provide input.

3) Other Requirements

- a) The Cures Act EVV requirements also specify that for each visit, an agency must also electronically track:
 - i. Type of Service performed
 - ii. The Individual Receiving the services
 - iii. Date of service
 - iv. Location of service
 - v. Individual providing service
- b) PASCO's current systems does capture all of the above data elements for each visit. At this time we do not know all of the specific requirements for tracking these data elements under the new EVV requirements. We are awaiting further guidance from HCPF. We are supportive of the departments delay of EVV implementation to give more time to gather stakeholder feedback and finalize requirements.
- 4) Rumors
 - a) There has been a lot of information floating around about what Medicaid may or may not require in items 2 and 3 above. Some of this is based on some draconian requirements in other states. We understand this causes a lot of concern because depending on the outcome it may have a significant impact on the daily care/service provision in a client home.

- b) We will do our best to keep you informed of the facts on the ground here in Colorado to try to dispel myths, rumors. While I certainly will advocate to make sure this regulation is implemented in a reasonable fashion in Colorado, I do believe the state Medicaid agency is trying to learn from the experiences of other states to try to improve implementation in Colorado.
- 5) What this means for you as a PASCO client/caregiver
 - a) PASCO has had forms of EVV for more than a decade. So the concept is not new to us.
 - b) PASCO is actively looking at all potential paths and EVV requirements, and mapping out options to comply while trying to minimize the impact on the client and caregiver.
 - c) That said, until we have definitive rules and guidance on the topics in #2 and #3 above we will not know our exact solution, but we will communicate as soon as we know.

As always, don't hesitate to reach out to me at

Human Resource Corner

We hope you all are having a wonderful summer, it's hard to believe fall is right around the corner and school is getting ready to start!

Please welcome Melissa Angel to our HR team. Melissa is our new recruiting Manager. If you are in the office please stop by and say "hello".

Thank You to everyone who came out for our annual summer picnic, this year was the best yet. We truly enjoyed seeing everyone and their families. Our next big event will be our annual Halloween trick or treat street so keep an eye out for more info on that, in the coming months.

Open enrollment for benefits has come to an end. The new benefit plan year will run from August 1, 2018 to July 31, 2019. If you have any questions or issues please reach out to our Holly, our benefits coordinator. Holly.Pajaud@pascohh.com

Most of you are aware that annual CEU's are due each year during your anniversary month. Save time and paper by doing them online! Please remember that not completing your annual requirements will lead to your employment being placed on hold until the items are completed.

As always please feel free to contact anyone in Human Resources regarding any issues, etc. you might be having, we will be happy to assist you or point you in the right direction. If you do not know who you need to contact we have a general email box you can use and your message will be directed to the correct person.

Transitioning Into Adulthood --Adams County Edition

Lucinda Rowe (Mom CNA)

I entered into the "process" with an open heart and mind... not fully grasping the scope and complexity involved. Estrella (Strizz), my daughter will be turning 21 this year (because of when her birthday falls she will be able to go back for the first semester of the 2018 school year) However federally funded public education will stop for her after the end of this Fall semester.

Knowing I had a little time (six months), our journey began this summer; transitioning into adult settings and leaving the school system. No more yellow school bus... it's sad. Now it's August, and time just keeps going...It never ever stops. Yet I'm still stuck at the beginning. I have never really prepared myself for the reality of this process.

As parents we have to wear all types of hats; mom, CNA, chauffeur, advocate, because we can't always depend on other people to have the answers concerning our children's (now young adults) upcoming transitions. I've read the literature, studied the programs, and asked numerous people, numerous questions. Yet, no matter how prepared I feel as a parent, I believe our children going through these transitions themselves should have some say in how they want to spend their days. I asked her if she wanted to go back to the TLC (Transition Learning Center-27J Brighton). Though Strizz is somewhat non-verbal, her answer was a great big smile. Though a temporary solution, it gives us a little time.

We have been trying to solve this fairly complex "What's next?" riddle for quite some time. Touring and contacting organizations that responded to our case manager's request for placement. We came out of the discovery-phase feeling even more isolated and discouraged; while each day program had advantages, there too was increasingly frustrating limitations. One program could fit my daughter's complex requirements, but provided no transportation, and approved her for only two days a week. Another daytime option was relatively close-by, but couldn't work with Strizz's unique needs. Who knew this new chapter in our lives would be this tough? We live in a relatively rural area that does not have access to many programs, which would benefit my daughter, and because Strizz has a seizure disorder, I am not comfortable putting her on a bus with a stranger. How could I be sure the driver would know what to do if my daughter was seizing in the back? The programs are typically 25 to 45 minutes away depending on time of day. With traffic it could be up to two hours on the road. Strizz can't tell me if someone has hurt her and that is a scary feeling all its own. It's all just so very scary.

I am writing this because I want to let other parents/caregivers know you are not alone. I have experienced the complexities involved with these transitions first-hand. And, while I am thankful to have the TLC behind me with great staff and teachers that care and will meet Strizz's needs, I know that we will start this process again come the new-year. We, as parents, are the best source of information. We can all help one another with providing resources and materials; "this place is great", "that place...don't bother." It is okay to let our kids grow up and know that they are adults. It may not be a yellow bus picking them up any longer, but it will be a ride that they can enjoy.

We host a sibling group so that the siblings can go out, play, and have respite. This is a new group and we are looking at bringing kids together so that they can have support in going out and having everyday fun... such as picnics, hikes, movie days, arts and crafts, etc. This will be Aurora based with some travel opportunities depending on the activity.

What: Fun activities, facilitated conversation and time to relax

When: Generally two Sundays a month 3 to 8 with room for flexibility based on need.

Who: Siblings or children of people with disabilities ages 6 to 17

Cost: There is a $25 dollar fee to help support the program with some special events being more.

The Autism Help Book-Sarah Carrasco

When my son David was diagnosed with "worst-case-scenario for autism" twelve years ago, I wandered around bookstores and libraries hoping to find a handbook on autism. Where do I find resources? How do I get my insurance company to cover autism-related therapies? What do all of these acronyms mean in the IEP meetings?

Despite my search, I was not able to find a handbook on autism that encompassed everything I needed to know to help get my son on track. After years of research, I finally put the puzzle together and found ways to help my son thrive.

I have compiled information on just about everything a parent needs to know pertaining to autism in a short, easy-to-read handbook on autism. I cover: self-care, getting a diagnosis, education, therapies, biomedical interventions, insurance, Medicaid, adolescence and life with autism.

Please support a fellow PASCO employee and help me spread the word about, 'The Autism Helpbook'.

Eighth Annual Home Builders Foundation Blitz Build

The Home Builders Foundation (HBF) is a metro-Denver non-profit and PASCO community partner that works with the homebuilding industry to provide home modifications at no cost for individuals with physical disabilities. Since 1993, the organization has helped more than 1,500 individuals with disabilities remain in their homes by building independence and elevating lives..

Every August, they gather 200+ volunteers to execute their Blitz Build. This year, crews will build ramps for 19 individuals in our community. The HBF is in need of meal sponsors for the Blitz Build crews. This is a great opportunity to learn more about the HBF, the work they do and the impact they have on recipients in our

Adaptive Baseball

Miracle League of Metro Denver is a 501(c)3 nonprofit in metro Denver that provides children and adults, who are living with various mental and/or physical challenges, an opportunity to play baseball as a team member in an organized league. The league was founded in 2006 as Sports Made Possible. In 2017 we affiliated with The Miracle League, a nationwide adaptive baseball league, and renamed to Miracle League of Metro Denver.

We partner with Foothills Park & Recreation District to provide an amazing baseball experience to participants of all ages with special needs and rely on the support of our community to offer this program.

Miracle League of Metro Denver baseball games are played at Jason Jennings Adaptive

Bum Baby Bum-Hodelia (PASCO Mom CNA)

Located in Loveland, CO, we service Loveland, Fort Collins, Berthoud, Greeley, Windsor and Longmont. Other locations upon request and consideration. Bum Baby Bum is a cloth diaper rental and sales company, with a built in service. We will wash and deliver diapers to your door. All you have to do is get your baby to poop and pee. But why cloth? Good question. Maybe you love our planet. Or maybe you like the adorable, trendy and stylish designs. Or maybe, like us, you hate going to the store and spending money. Or maybe it's something else altogether- like no diaper rashes and no blowouts. Whatever your reason, cloth is not only cheaper (yes, even with a service), it's also easier and better all around. And it's Oh! so bootylicious! Those cute fluffy bottoms...

If you looking for a way to connect with your neighbors, consider A Little Help. A Little Help is a Colorado non-profit that connects neighbors to help seniors thrive. A Little Help equips neighbors of all ages to volunteer and provide direct services to empower the elders in their communities to live independently and with a high quality of life.

Boasting a presence in metro Denver for more than ten years, A Little Help fosters intergenerational connections and volunteer opportunities. Volunteers provide services such as yard work, errands, transportation, handy help, technology help, companionship and caregiver respite. We welcome individual volunteers as well as neighborhood groups, sports teams and scouts who would like to make a direct and lasting impact locally in their neighborhoods.

A Little Help is actively recruiting volunteers and members (seniors who need our help) in your neighborhood. For more information find us online at www.alittlehelp.org or give us a call at 720-242-9032.

Healthy Food for Denver

Despite our 3% unemployment rate, Colorado is the 3rd fastest growing state for childhood hunger. Healthy Food for Denver is a community-driven campaign working to get an initiative on the ballot to help make sure healthy food is not a privilege for the few - healthy food must be accessible to all. Healthy Food For Denver is working to provide healthy food and food education to Denver's kids, and get grocery stores to our food deserts.

What is a "Food Desert", you ask? A food desert is a low-income neighborhood where more than 1/3 of folks don't have access to a car and the closest grocery store is more than a half-mile away. Some families in Denver take two buses and travel over an hour each way on just to get affordable, healthy food for their family and 49% of Denver's low-income neighborhoods do not have access to grocery stores. These food deserts unfairly impact kids, seniors, people with disabilities making it harder for struggling families to get by.

How will these initiatives make an impact?

- For the "Healthy Food for Denver Kids" initiative, we are proposing a .08% sales tax (less than a penny on $10) to create grants for schools and area nonprofits already doing this work. The funds are used to ensure kids have meals beyond school lunches (like during the summer and over long weekends), and to bring back home economics classes like cooking, gardening, and nutrition.
- For the "Healthy Food for Denver Food Deserts" initiative, we are proposing a 1.5% recreational marijuana tax to create loans and grants for small businesses and entrepreneurs to open up healthy food options in our food desert neighborhoods.
